200 IN ATTENDANCE AT ANNUAL MEETING OF YOUNG JUDAEA

Two Business Sessions Are Scheduled on Today's Program.

Approximately 200 representatives from 17 southern cities convened in Atlanta yesterday for the nineteenth annual convention of Southern Young Judaea and a four-day program of business and recreation.

An open session was held yesterday afternoon at which greetings from Alderman I. Gloer Hailey, in behalf of the city; Samuel L. Eplan, in behalf of the Atlanta Zionist district; Mrs. Joseph Glazer, in behalf of the Atlanta Junior Hadassah, and Edward Krick, representing the Atlanta unit of the Masadah, were given. Sidney Parks, city convention chairman, presided at the meeting.

David Macarov, of Atlanta, president of the organization, gave his annual report last night before delegates at a dinner, which was followed by a dance. After dinner, Frank Rubin, of Boston, Mass., representative of National Young Judaea council, made an address.

Two business meetings are scheduled for today. Frances Rubin and Dinah Rausen, both of Chattanooga, will preside. A fun night will be held at Lakewood park.

Business sessions will be continued tomorrow, with a motion picture and a skit on the entertainment program. The final business session and election of officers will be held Wednesday afternoon, after which a final farewell dinner-dance will be held Wednesday night in the Jewish Alliance Progressive Club ballroom.

Principals at Young Judaea's Convention Here

They played principal parts yesterday in welcoming delegates of the 19th annual convention of the Southern Young Judaea to Atlanta. From left to right, are Sidney Parks, of Atlanta, city chairman for the convention, Frank Rubin, of Boston, Mass., representative of the National Young Judaea council, who delivered an address, and Frank Macarov, chairman of the Southern Young Judaea.

Beginning of the convention of the Southern Young Judaea yesterday brought out the fairer sex. On hand at the inaugural dinner-dance in the ballroom of the Atlanta Educational Alliance building were Mrs. Barney Medintz, of Atlanta, chairman of the banquet committee; Dianah Rausen, of Chattanooga, honorary president, and Selma Blumberg, of Chattanooga, chairman of the essay committee.

J. E. MURRAY DIES.
TORONTO, Aug. 14.—(Canadian Press)—J. Edward Murray, 47, president of the Bromo Seltzer Company of Canada and the United States, died today after a brief illness from pneumonia at his summer home at Big Bay Point, 55 miles north of Toronto.

Former Lifeguard Injured in Dive Of 25 Feet Into Shallow Water

Companion Says He Warned James D. Smith Not To Jump But He Went Ahead, Suffering Loss of Several Teeth and Painful Cuts.

A high dive from a poplar tree into waist-deep water sent James D. Smith, 26, of 360 Windsor street, a former lifeguard, to Grady hospital yesterday.

Smith suffered the loss of several teeth, a badly lacerated upper lip, cuts of the forehead and a bruised nose when he landed in Sweetwater creek, six miles from Gordon road, in Clayton county.

He was admitted to the hospital, where attaches said his condition is "poor."

J. B. Bartfield, a companion, told police that Smith climbed the tree to a height of about 25 feet and announced he was going to dive. "I yelled at him, 'Well, buddy, you know the water is only waist high where you're fixing to land,' and he called back, 'Yeah, I know.' Then he dove. When he didn't come up, I went in and dragged him out."

Bartfield said the injured young man half-way to Atlanta, at which point they were met by Lieutenant W. A. Wells, of Fulton county police, who took the youth from there to the hospital.

Smith formerly worked as a lifeguard at city swimming pools.

Adoption Cases in Atlanta Area Reviewed by Welfare Committee

Stories of human happiness and human tragedy that result from the adoption practices in Fulton and DeKalb counties are being gathered by the committee of doctors, lawyers and social workers studying the situation under the auspices of the Social Welfare Council, it was revealed yesterday.

The committee met at the Academy of Medicine on Prescott street to assemble material and consider action for the improvement of conditions, particularly with reference to the children of unmarried mothers.

Details of scores of adoptions in the Atlanta area during the last two years have been studied by the committee. They include those arranged through licensed child-placing agencies after a complete investigation, as well as others handled in other ways.

Miss Florence Van Sicker, executive secretary of the Child Welfare Association, and chairman of the committee, said:

"Our findings have been intensely interesting. As a general principle we have discovered that adoptions handled by licensed agencies are more likely to result in happiness for the child and its adoptive parents. Of course this does not mean that adoptions handled in other ways do not succeed. A great many do. A great many happy homes are based on affections built around adopted children who were not obtained through licensed agencies. But the protection given by licensed agencies has prevented many tragedies."

M'NUTT LAUDS FETE OF U. S. OCCUPATION

40th Anniversary of Philippine Invasion Observed.

MANILA, Aug. 15.—(Monday) (P)—American High Commissioner Paul V. McNutt today termed the recent 40th anniversary celebration of American occupation of the Philippines "one of the most impressive celebrations of any kind that I have seen anywhere."

"Its sincerity," he said in a statement, "was so marked that the response on the part of Americans here and at home will be in full measure."

A large part of Manila's population turned out Saturday for the observance, in which Philippine president, Manuel Quezon, praised the United States for its Philippine policy.

FRENCH PARACHUTIST FALLS 3,200 FEET, DIES

LONS-LE-SAUNIER, France, Aug. 14.—(P)—James Williams, Frenchman, billed as the world's champion parachutist, was killed in a 3,200-foot fall today when his parachute failed to open over the Lons airport.

A crowd of 5,000 saw Williams leap from a plane over the foothills of the Jura mountains, but thrills turned to screams of horror when his parachute failed to open. Investigation showed his ripcord had failed to work.

2 Grandchildren Cheer Woman On To Win Hike

SEATTLE, Aug. 13.—(P)—Her two grandchildren and her own four-year-old child were among those cheering at the finish line today when Mrs. Bertha Woodward, 46, won the women's championship in the annual 52-mile Lake Washington hike.

The 128-pound Mrs. Woodward, winning the long grind the fourth time from a field of 100 other women, was timed in nine hours, 47 minutes.

LARGE COOK BOOK EASILY OBTAINED

Valuable Information Will Be Given for 2 Constitution Subscriptions.

"Earning a copy of America's Cook Book by getting two new six-month subscriptions to The Atlanta Constitution was really fun," declared one successful participant in the newspaper's movement yesterday. "I just cut out the two order blanks published in the paper and telephoned a few friends. It took less than an hour."

America's Cook Book will be bought for and given to any person procuring two six-month subscriptions to The Constitution. While it is not possible to award it as a premium, or to reduce its retail price of $2.50, The Constitution will buy the book outright and deliver it to the person obtaining the subscriptions.

Termed "the greatest cook book ever published in America," the book contains 1,006 pages, 3,427 recipes and menus, valuable data as to the calorie and vitamin content of foods, how to buy economically, how to prepare and serve any size family or for any type of occasion.

The book is called magnificently complete, and is a best-seller throughout the country.

GEORGIAN TO GUIDE CCC BOYS' STUDIES

Ralph G. M. Flynt Appointed to Education Post.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(P)—Ralph G. M. Flynt, former Georgia and Virginia high school teacher, received an appointment today as special assistant to the director of CCC camp education.

Flynt succeeds John A. Lang, who resigned July 24 to become North Carolina director of the National Youth Administration.

Flynt has been connected with the CCC educational program since March, 1934. He served as camp educational adviser until July, 1935, when he was appointed district educational adviser and assigned to district headquarters at Fort Benning, Ga.

He attended Mercer University and later the University of Virginia and Princeton University. He has published several monographs and articles on education and American history.

Mrs. De Ovies Is High in Praise of America's Famous Cook Book

Wife of Dean To Add It to Her Own Kitchen Equipment.

Mrs. Raimundo de Ovies, wife of the dean of the Cathedral of St. Philip, is deeply impressed by the volume of praise she has heard from informed quarters concerning America's Cook Book.

"It is my intention to add it to my own kitchen equipment," says Mrs. de Ovies. "I am acquainted with its reputation, and I give it my endorsement."

"It is my opinion that America's Cook Book will prove a genuine boon to any housewife or mother in meeting the demands she must face daily in connection with her kitchen and dining room."

"Even the most experienced will learn a great deal from it."

MRS. RAIMUNDO DE OVIES.

FRANCO'S FORCES NEAR RICH MINES

Insurgents Pushing Conquest
Through Spain's Richest Region.

BARCELONA, Aug. 14.—(P)—Two squadrons of insurgent warplanes, each with five bombers, raided the Barcelona waterfront today. They dropped 40 bombs, but caused only slight damage.

HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier), Aug. 14.—(P)—Insurgent southern armies today reached the gates of Ciudad Real province, a government stronghold since the start of the civil war, pushing their campaign of conquest through Spain's richest mining region.

Two columns bore down on the Almaden mercury mines, their immediate objective.

Forces under General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano struck out east of Cabeza del Buey, captured by the insurgents yesterday, pushing through Badajoz province to the limits of Ciudad Real about 15 miles from Almaden.

Another force, closing in from the northwest, drove through Valde Caballeros to the Guadiana river, and Puebla de Alcocer is threatened with encirclement.

Insurgent dispatches reported Ciudad Real was being fortified hurriedly by the government.

The government acknowledged a retreat on the southern front, but reported General Jose Majia's troops still held strong hill positions defending the road from Castuera to Almaden and Ciudad Real.

Sharp aerial duels accompanied the troop action.

BLAST FIRES GAS WELL IN MISSISSIPPI FIELD

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 14.—(P)—A blast of uncertain origin early today fired a 50-million-cubic foot gas well in the east Jackson field and it soon roared completely out of control.

The explosion which touched off the runaway blaze roused nearby sleepers about 1 a. m. Within the first few minutes the fire melted valve controls at the outlet of the well casing.

SUSPECT CONFESSES SLAYING OF WOMAN

DETROIT, Aug. 14.—(UP)—George Brown, 36, negro, today confessed that he attacked and killed Mrs. Gertrude Melmann in St. Louis, Mo., on July 27, and robbed her home.

Brown was arrested at the home of a sister here Friday as a suspect and was being taken today by officers to St. Louis for further questioning when he admitted the crime.

LA FARGE, ARTIST, DIES.

MOUNT CARMEL, Conn., Aug. 14.—(P)—Banere La Farge, 72, artist known especially for his religious paintings, died at his home today after several months' illness. He was a son of the late John La Farge, also a prominent artist.

Veteran Senator Denied Vacation, Labors in Capital

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(P)—The senate neglected to give a vacation this summer to Senator Sheppard, of Texas, the oldest man in point of service in congress.

The 63-year-old chairman of the campaign expenditures committee is one of the few members of congress who have remained in Washington since adjournment. There is no vacation in sight for him, the Texan says, until after the general elections next fall.

His summer entertainment so far has consisted of one overnight trip with his family to a Virginia resort, and a couple of golf games, played on a public course. He isn't worried, incidentally, about lack of practice spoiling his game. He says with a smile:

"I'm just a dube."

MRS. LULA BENNETT, 62, TO BE BURIED MONDAY

Mrs. Lula O. Bennett, 62, of 1844 Howell Mill road, died last night in a private hospital. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Robert Dyer, Mrs. Hubert Chambers and Mrs. C. L. Mathews; two sons, Gordon W. and Robert R. Bennett; her mother, Mrs. W. B. New, of Lithonia, and two brothers, Hubert and Jack New, of Atlanta. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from the North Side Park Baptist church with the Rev. W. F. Burdett and the Rev. W. S. Pruitt officiating. Burial will be in Hollywood cemetery under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

WOMEN PLAN QUIZ ON FOREIGN POLI

Congressional Candidate
Outline Views.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—(P)—A nation-wide campaign to get congressional candidates to outline their stands on American foreign policy questions was opened today by the National League Women Voters.

This was announced by Louise Leonard Wright, of Chicago, chairman of the league's department of government and foreign policy.

The announced purpose of the campaign is to permit voters to take the candidates' views into account in casting their November ballots.

SHOP CANDLER PAID HIGH TRIBUTE AT CAMP MEETING

More Than 3,000 Attend
Services at Old Salem
Tabernacle.

some for the enduring worth of their labors," he declared. "I can say without exaggeration that this man whom we honor today possesses all these in the highest degree."

In his lifetime he had made five great deliverances and Bishop Candler made two of them.

We honor him for what he has done, but we love him for what he is—a great unselfish man without guile and without guile," he concluded.

Newton said Bishop Candler had risen to heights of greatness because he was well born, because he was richly endowed with physical and mental ability, because he became obedient to the will and way of God.

Brilliant Mind.
His brilliance of mind, his length of body, his fervor of his great triumvirate of as so wonderfully combined in life have yielded fully and fully to the Lordship of Jesus Christ," he added.

The Baptist minister placed Bishop Candler in the ranks with men as Bishop Stephen Elliott, of the Episcopal church; Dr. Brown Strickler, of the Presbyterian church; Bishop Andrews and Haygood Pierce and many of his own group, and the Mercer, Adiel Sherwood, H. Tucker and P. H. Mell, of the Methodist group.

Dean de Ovies attributed the camp's greatness to "his personal life and devotion to Jesus Christ, the eternal Son of God." He asserted it was not display of wealth or fine buildings or of power that would win the world for God, but merely the preaching of Jesus Christ and His crucifixion.

In paying special tribute to the elder family, Mr. Montgomery said: "If we had more families like the Candler family we would have better citizens and if we had more preachers like Bishop Warren Candler we would have better members of the church."

True Greatness.
Expressing the opinion the true greatness of Bishop Candler had yet been realized, Mr. Montgomery said: "Long after his name will be echoing through the hills."

Brigadier Holz said thousands of underprivileged people have been influenced by Bishop Candler through the Salvation Army. A great church is but the light and shadow of a great life," he said, "and southern Methu has been greatly aided by life. His influence has spread throughout the world."

After the series of tributes, Bishop Candler was unable to respond because of his physical condition. He, however, rose to dismiss the congregation.

Following the benediction scores of people hurried to the platform to pay their personal respects to Bishop and Mrs. Candler. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Candler, of Covington, sat with the couple on the dais. The Rev. T. M. Sullivan, acting elder of the Salem-Oxford district, presided.

Dinner Served.
Long before time for the service, morning, the crowds began to arrive. At 9 o'clock many of the seats were filled, and by 10 o'clock only standing room was left.

After the service, Major R. J. Gunn and H. Y. McCord Sr., of Atlanta, who have been attending

Dinner on the 'Old Camp Ground' - - - - - Notables Pay Tribute to Bishop Candler

Dinner at the old camp ground. The Candler family is well represented at this table in Old Salem grounds, where Bishop Warren A. Candler, extreme right, yesterday was praised by church leaders from all parts of the state. From left to right are Caroline Candler, Mrs. W. A. Candler, S. C. Candler, Mrs. J. A. McCord, Miss Frances Candler, Mrs. S. C. Candler and the bishop. Miss Caroline and Miss Frances Candler are granddaughters of the bishop, while S. C. Candler is his son. Although the bishop has preached yearly at the grounds for more than 50 years, he was not able yesterday to give verbal thanks before the great crowd to the many who praised him in speeches.

Salem camp meetings for more than half a century and who have contributed much toward the development of the camp ground, served dinner for approximately 200 guests under the shade of an oak grove on the grounds.

Table after table was filled with golden-fried chicken, barbecued lamb, ham, stuffed eggs and scores of other edibles that have become famous at Salem camp meetings.

As Bishop Candler sat in the crowd and enjoyed the dinner, he commented on the fact that most of the great leaders who were associated with him in the early camp-meeting days were now dead. He expressed thanks, however, that the spirit of the old meetings still remained.

Dr. Anthony delivered a special sermon this afternoon, and the day's program closed tonight with an evangelistic service led by the Rev. William Boring, pastor of the Wesley Memorial church, Atlanta. The camp meeting will continue all this week.

3-YEAR-OLD GIRL KILLED BY TRUCK

Driver Thought Child Was Safe With Mother.

RINGGOLD, Ga., Aug. 14.—(P)—A three-year-old girl was struck and fatally injured by a truck on the Fort Oglethorpe highway, a mile and a half west of here late today.

Sheriff J. L. Moreland, of Calhoun county, who investigated the accident, said the child was Dorothy Jean Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wells, and that the family had been riding in the truck during the day. The accident occurred a few minutes after the family alighted, the sheriff said.

He absolved the driver of blame, saying the driver thought Mrs. Wells had the child in her arms. The little girl was standing in front of the vehicle and was not seen by the driver before her head was crushed.

Contemporaries and close associates of Bishop Candler listened intently as his praises were sung—and spoken—yesterday at the old camp ground. These three revealed their interest as the photographer made this picture. They are, left to right, T. H. Jeffries, ordinary of Fulton county; W. W. Webb, of Hahira, president of the Old-Age Pension Association of Georgia, and C. M. Curry, superintendent of the Warren Candler Memorial Hospital in Savannah.

Humorous Stories and Incidents Mark Opening of Camp Meeting

SALEM CAMP GROUNDS, Ga., Aug. 14.—Major R. J. Gunn and H. Y. McCord, both of Atlanta, are recognized as institutions at the 110th annual camp meeting which opened here today.

Mr. McCord came to his first meeting in 1867. He was then 13 years of age. Major Gunn has been attending for more than 50 years. Both spend their childhood near the camp grounds, and Major Gunn was a teacher at Salem school 49 years ago.

Each has erected a new "tent" on the grounds and every year they give a dinner under the trees for approximately 200 guests. They also have been responsible for many other developments and are now visualizing an even greater camp ground for the future.

Tells of Sherman Burning Jackson.

As Mr. McCord sat under the trees this morning and talked of old times, he recalled that he is the only living person who saw Sherman burn Jackson, Ga.

He said when he learned Sherman was nearing his home, he tried to drive the hogs and cows to the swamps, but added that the northern leader got all but two of the pigs. He was only 10 years old at the time.

Judge Leon McCord Attends Services.

Judge Leon McCord, judge of the United States circuit court of appeals who lives in Montgomery, Ala., attended camp meeting services today.

"I still believe in the old-time religion," he said as he looked over the beautiful camp grounds. "As I sat last night and watched the moon come up I said to myself, no wonder our forebears took a great pride in this place."

He voiced the opinion Bishop Candler is one of the greatest preachers in the world.

Two Get Laughs In Faith Talks.

Charles D. Montgomery, Presbyterian layman of Atlanta, and Judge McCord, drew a big laugh when they became involved in a conversation over their faith. Just before going down to the arbor for the morning service, Judge McCord remarked that they had better go down and provide a "sprinkling of Presbyterians."

Humorous Story Told by De Ovies.

Dean Raimundo de Ovies, of St. Philip's Episcopal Cathedral, added another humorous story. "When one of the sisters in my church found out I was not going to fill my pulpit today she wanted to know where I was going," he said.

"I told her I was going down to Salem camp grounds to eulogize Bishop Warren A. Candler. "Good gracious," she said, "you can't do that. Why, he hasn't even been converted."

Dean de Ovies then took the program and explained that he, as a representative of the Episcopal Cathedral, was going to honor Bishop Candler, of the Methodist church.

"Oh, that's all right," she quickly replied. Dean de Ovies pointed out that it was just another case of a good sister who loved her own church.

Glenn Is Visitor At Camp Grounds.

T. K. Glenn, Atlanta banker, was among the visitors to the camp grounds today.

Mr. Glenn and John N. Goddard have also built and donated a new "tent" for camp-meeting houses. It has been designated as "Strangers' Cottage."

ronites, and the boy's rich southern accent has made front page news often during his stay here. Atlanta's hope in the national derby won his right to compete in the big race when he drove his streamlined car to a smashing victory on the South Boulevard course July 30.

It was Soap Box Derby day in Atlanta then, and a crowd estimated at between 25,000 and 30,000 persons cheered as Lamar, a grinning, 14-year-old son of a city fireman, shot across the finish line. He was the lone Atlanta survivor after a brilliant afternoon of elimination heats.

Then, three days later, Lamar was among the starry-eyed youngsters who stood behind the footlights on the stage of Loew's Grand theater and received plaudits from the audience and rewards for participation in the blue ribbon event of boydom.

The McDaniel family lives at 343 Hopkins street, N. W. The grand award consisted of more than $1,000 in prizes and merchandise offered by Atlanta business houses, in addition to the all-expenses-paid trip to Akron.

A group of church notables who attended the first meeting at the historic camp ground in Newton county to praise Bishop Candler yesterday are shown here. They are, from left, left to right, the Rev. T. M. Sullivan, presiding elder of the Salem-Oxford Methodist district; Bishop Candler, Dr. Bascom Anthony, Methodist leader, and Charles D. Montgomery, Atlanta Presbyterian layman; back row, left to right, are Brigadier Ernest Holtz, of the Salvation Army; Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church; Dean de Ovies, of the Cathedral of St. Philip, shaking hands with the bishop, and H. Y. McCord Sr., of Atlanta.

Federal Prison Expands Magazine, Looks to More Ambitious Program

'Good Words,' Changed to 'The Atlantic,' Includes High Praise for Ralph McGill and a Rivers Article on Georgia Prison Reform.

"Good Words," a pocket-size magazine published for 26 years by inmates of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, has given way to a larger and more ambitious publication, "The Atlantic."

The new magazine's July-August issue appeared yesterday, making its bow with 17 stories, features, editorials, sports reports and humorous articles.

The magazine contains a reprint of a column by Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution, called "The Story of a Vagrant Lot."

McGill Praised.
The editor's note preceding this article says: "By way of superfluous introduction, suffice it to say that McGill is a real friend of the underdog; a sportsman nonpareil; a great humanitarian; a real newspaperman."

The publication's news columns revealed that clubs have been abolished at the prison, a story noting the first appearance of the custodial officers without the customary clubs, formerly part of the uniform since the prison's inception.

Another news story told of J. Manning Jones, former athletic director at the federal reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio, planning speedy installation of varied sports activities.

The magazine is printed at the prison print shop, and most of the writing is by convicts, some of it signed, but a greater part of it anonymous. The inaugural issue is dedicated to Governor Rivers, in gratitude for his "manifest interest in prison reform."

Rivers Writes Article.
An article signed by Governor Rivers and "written especially for 'The Atlantic'" traces the course of Georgia prison reform in recent months.

An editorial called "Introducing 'The Atlantic'" says, in part: "Reaching out, as it must, across the barbed barriers of misunderstanding and prejudice to find an anchorage in the hearts of fellow-men—our policy shall be one of straight thinking and honest convictions. We shall have no space for emotional folderol. . . ."

"If you have permitted grave shadows to filter through your mental armor, you will find here dispelling and inspiring forces. To regard one's future with resignation—to see nothing but a bleak and ever narrowing road ahead is to throw away a most precious possession—courage. We must build self-respect before we may ask another to respect us."

GEORGE ANSWERS ROOSEVELT TODAY

Will Reply to President's Attack on His 'Record and Democracy.'

Pensions and Social Security" commemorating the anniversary of the signing of the federal Social Security Act by President Roosevelt. The President, broadcasting from Washington, will immediately precede the Governor with a 15-minute radio speech.

Rivers' campaign headquarters announced yesterday that radio receivers would carry the President's message to the group assembled for tonight's meeting here.

W. W. Webb, of Hahira, president of the Georgia Old Age Pension Association, will introduce Governor Rivers.

The Governor's three opponents for re-election have busy schedules carved for the day. Hugh Howell, Atlanta lawyer, will speak at Statesboro at noon and at Lyons at 4 o'clock while J. J. Mangham, Bremen businessman will speak at Monroe at 1 o'clock and at Social Circle at 4 o'clock.

Robert F. Wood, of Athens, will begin a barnstorming trip that will take him to several sections of the state during the week.

Former Governor Talmadge's headquarters announced yesterday that the senatorial candidate will speak at Claxton and at 3 o'clock Saturday at Thomaston.

DRYS OF GEORGIA WILL BACK SLATE

Candidates To Be Selected at Atlanta Meeting.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 14.—(P)—Chairman C. F. Johnston, of the Georgia division of the National Prohibition party, said today a slate of candidates will be selected for Georgia positions at a meeting in Atlanta August 22.

Johnston, a Free Methodist clergyman, said the meeting will be held in the First Free Methodist church there and that candidates for Governor and other principal state offices are expected to be given the Prohibitionists' endorsement.

He said the Georgia prohibitionists will back "candidates chosen by other parties" in instances where the office-seekers are satisfactory.

Doctor Hears Death Strike Heart Of His Patient Without Warning

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—(P)—Dr. Richard O. Snyder heard the heart attack from which Clarence A. Zimmer died. Dr. Snyder, called yesterday to treat Zimmer, who had complained of chest pains, described the sudden end.

"The heart just stopped. It was beating normally, then it quit all of a sudden."

This was unusual, Dr. Snyder said, because, ordinarily in heart cases, the organ skips a few beats, then diminishes in volume and rhythm until it halts.

When the doctor arrived at Zimmer's residence, he found his patient resting comfortably. The earlier pains had disappeared. Zimmer's pulse was normal, his breathing ordinary and his heart sound good.

Then, as Dr. Snyder shifted his stethoscope, death struck without warning.

GEORGE HARPER, 89, DIES AT HOME HERE

Was Oldest Retired Member of the Atlanta Police Department.

George Harper, 89, oldest retired member of the Atlanta police department, died last night at his home, 673 Woodward avenue, S. W., after a brief illness.

He had served 40 years and two months on the police force at the time of his retirement on June 1, 1927. He has lived in West End during his residence in Atlanta.

Born April 18, 1849, Mr. Harper came to Atlanta as a young man, marrying here on June 16, 1909. He was a granite cutter before joining the police force on March 31, 1887.

He wore badge No. 11 and was a patrolman during his service. Serving at the time he did, "Uncle George," as he was affectionately known by many friends, saw many changes in police work. When he began as a patrolman, matches were handed out at roll call instead of flashlight bulbs, and horses were used by some patrolmen.

During the years that passed, the force had grown steadily, and when he retired, there were more than 300 members.

Surviving are the wife, one stepson, H. H. Finch, of Miami Beach, Fla., and one niece, Mrs. Beulah Heav, of Augusta, Ga.

Funeral services will be announced by Henry M. Blanchard.

WIRE FIRMS FACE EVASION CHARGE

CIO Director Asserts Cut in Wages Seen.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(P)—The Committee for Industrial Organization charged today that the two major telegraph companies intended to use a "technical loophole" in the new wage-hour law to effect a general 8.3 per cent wage reduction.

John Brophy, the CIO national director, wrote all CIO affiliates to support their allied union, the American Communications Association, in opposing the reduction.

The companies will be forced to reduce the work week to 44 hours under the wage-hour law, Brophy said, adding that they intended "to cut wages to make up for the shorter week."

FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW ESCAPES ONE LAW SUIT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—(P)—Freddie Bartholomew, English boy actor who has been a principal figure in many law suits involving his custody and movie earnings, avoided one today as the superior court held the Myron Selznick agency could not sue him for fees.

The court allowed to stand the agency's suit for $39,600 against the 14-year-old's aunt.

Joyce Lay Quietly Thinking, Could It Be That Paul No Longer Loves Her

By KATHLEEN NORRIS.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

"I hope you didn't miss the broad English, a for Sir George Hoptree's benefit!" Pridgie said scornfully. "She gives me a great big pain." She used to be Betty Moss when she and I went to Castilleja school!"

"Oh, is she divorced?" Joyce asked.

"No-o-o! She's only 20; she's a year older than I am. Her mother was divorced and married an Englishman named Blandwood, and she came home three years ago with 'Elsa Moss-Blandwood' on her cards—oh, yes, and she met the Prince of Wales at a garden party—maybe!" Pridgie grumbled. "I hope he knew it!"

Joyce felt quite light-hearted as she tubbed and brushed and powdered, felt that their common dislike of Elsa was a bond between her and Pridgie.

"This place kills me," she said frankly, dropping on her bed.

"I loathe the gait they go down here; I don't know how they do it; bridge and roulette and dog races every night, and cocktails before lunch, and golf and polo and tennis. Why they don't all drop dead!" Pridgie muttered.

"We're all going over to Del Monte for dinner, then the dog races, and then wind up at Canary Cottage for roulette!"

They lay on their beds and discussed not only their position as guests of Claire von Schwerin, but their hostess herself.

"She's having a terrible time holding Victor," Pridgie said.

"What makes you think so?"

"Oh, the way she acts; the way they rush around! He's only about 31, you know; he's always on the lookout for something exciting."

"I think that's rather disgusting, don't you, Pridgie?" Joyce asked.

"Oh, I don't know. What did she expect?"

"Well, if I married I wouldn't expect—that, the other girl formulated it hesitatingly. 'I mean, what you sure of, if you're not sure of your husband—going on liking you?'"

"Why should you want him to, if you got tired of him?"

"But I should think your husband would be sort of the—well, the base you built your life on."

"My mother's husbands aren't. My mother's been married three times—Obermann really didn't count," Pridgie amended it; "they were only married three months. Oh, well, she has a lot of fun!"

Joyce finished rather vaguely.

Joyce made no further comment. She lay thinking. Somehow the atmosphere of this place made her feel unnatural and uneasy; her face felt flushed and dry all the time, and her heart beat hard.

On Saturday Paul and Elsa were drawn to play in a golf foursome with the best of the man players, one Rudy Reiger, and a young woman named Ethel Le Court. Joyce had felt in her soul that the drawing would result this way.

"I don't have to go home tomorrow; I can stay until Monday; ask me to stay until Monday!" her heart screamed. Aloud, "Well, being in the finals is something, anyway!"

"I can't get over it! Elsa and I were saying at Forces' this afternoon that if she hadn't intentionally hooked that shot on the eighth—"

They were all talking golf again.

"The telephone Mr. von Schwerin," a waiter said. Paul jumped up. When he came back he was in a great hurry.

"It was Elsa," he explained. Joyce's heart thumped like a leaden thing in her breast. "She's got a sun headache, poor kid; she's not so awfully strong," Paul added. "She wants me to run down and get her; she's going to turn right in. I'll be right back."

"Elsa was gone."

"Elsa could throw a couple of bulls single-handed," Pridgie said. "But how that delicate gets 'em!"

Paul was gone for a long time. When he came back he was slightly out of breath and excited.

"She's got a sun headache, nothing serious," he confided. "Poor little thing; she's all in; I had practically to carry her upstairs. I told her to get bed but she said she might cool down later and just look on; she won't dance."

"Oh, poor thing," the girls said dutifully. They exchanged glances. Everything was twist and queer for Joyce; the sense of having to fight for her friendship with Paul, the deeper sense of being able to fight, not knowing the rules. Paul's father came over to their table and asked her to dance. While they danced he told her about his tailor in New York and that he had a better tailor in London. He said that something he had to go for four or five things on one vest, but it was worth it. He asked Joyce if she was having a nice time, and said she mustn't imagine that old fellows his age didn't know a love girl when they saw one.

Joyce laughed; was youthful receptive to his remarks. He was Paul's father after all. But she did not like it. And when they finished their dance Paul had disappeared.

"I don't know where that son of mine's gone," Victor von Schwerin said. "But I don't think it matters, does it? I think we're having an extremely pleasant time without him."

Joyce smiled. Her heart was sick within her, and she knew neither what she was doing nor saying. Everything was a sickening glare of light and noise, wailing waves of music beating through it. Where had Paul gone? Joyce could look the situation soberly in the face now; she thought Paul cared more than did care; she had thought would come back from his love unchanged as she was unchanged herself; she had put herself in a false position; she had been carried away by a dream that already seemed to her vague as a cloud. No one must guess, no one must know.

Paul did not love her. She knew that he did not love Elsa either. Any. Playing good golf, tennis, swimming, going out on somebody's boat and eagerly discussing seamanship, enjoying meals, liking his clothes, populating wherever he went, the one thing for which Paul had no use at all was a girl. He was a girl who people were doing their own work down on a forlorn California ranch! It was all horribly clear now, only she had not seen it before. Time went on. Hours, hours. Nobody else asked her dance, and Paul's dreadful faith continued to sit beside her, murmuring to her.

"I'll tell you something you don't know. I'm going to kiss you before the evening's over. How that? Yes, sir; I'm going to have a kiss from the prettiest girl in the room—"

When he took her out into the hall to show her a photograph of the winning polo team with himself on a dancing pony, Joyce seized the opportunity to go to the dressing-room. She had hoped Pridgie might be there, at that she could say, "Oh, let's fire Paul and go home. I'm dead!" But there was no one there.

A "LOST CITY" IN CAMBODIA.

—Angkor Thom.

This week let's take a long journey across the sea—to a place near the border of Siam. Howard Hughes didn't stop there on his round-the-world trip, and neither did Wiley Post. The place of which I am thinking would have been out of their way—it is only 14 degrees of latitude north of the equator.

The name "Angkor Thom" believed to mean "Grand City." A thousand years ago, was one of the great cities of Asia. For hundreds of years, was a center of power, the heart of Cambodia's kings. Then it was deserted and the jungles closed around it.

Why it was deserted, we don't know. The people who lived there may have been visited by terrible plague, or there may have been some other reason why came to be lost. At any rate, disappeared from the pages of history close to five centuries ago.

In 1858 a French scientist named Mouhot set out to explore the jungles north of the Gulf of Siam.

After reaching Cambodia, he hired brown-skinned natives to with him up a river aboard a sampan. During the journey, the Frenchman heard strange tales. "There are dead cities in the jungles of a broad valley," he was told. "They were built by giant. We have not seen them, but we have learned about them from other people. There are high walls and great towers."

Mouhot wondered whether the natives were telling the truth. He decided to go farther and farther into the jungles.

H. MENDEL & CO. PREPARED FOR VISITING MERCHANTS

ATLANTA STYLE AND MARKET WEEK WILL BRING MANY

Record Fall Buying Is Anticipated by H. Mendel & Company.

Atlanta wholesalers and manufacturers will be on their toes this week.

Today ushers in a week of buying and entertainment for the merchants of the entire south, and there will be hundreds of them in the city.

It has been designated as "Atlanta Style and Market Week" by the Atlanta Manufacturers' and Distributors' Association. Every wholesaler and manufacturer in the city will be extending a warm hand and doing his best to make the hospitality of the city lavishly dispensed.

Among this number there will be no more sincere welcome nor more interesting place for buyers who want a large range of goods, from the most up-to-date in fashioning apparel, and sundry items, than will be "The House With the Goods"—the big wholesale place of H. Mendel & Company, at 185 Pryor street, southwest.

H. Mendel & Company is proud that slogan—because it so well describes and fits it. The officials of the company are also proud because customers have found it means what it says.

What Customer Says.
A customer recently visited the Mendel store. Here's what he said: "I've never seen such service as that from H. Mendel & Company. They seem to carry a stock of everything, and always give such prompt deliveries."

His statement illustrates very clearly just what H. Mendel & Company consider to be the primary function of a wholesaler—prompt service to their customers, and possible only by the carrying of adequate stocks. This company will be in the front when it comes to entertaining and looking after the welfare and pleasure of visiting merchants to the city this week. Every official and businessman will not only be on hand

"The House With the Goods," Mendel Slogan

Large wholesale house of H. Mendel & Company, 185 Pryor street, S. W., will give hearty welcome to visiting merchants during the week.

to give all aid possible in making selections from a stock that will fill every need for a large department store, but merchants will find their stock complete with goods of a national reputation—goods that will be a pleasure for them to order and recommend to their customers back home.

In order to furnish every convenience for buyers, the company has provided free parking space on either side of its four-story building.

History of Mendels.
The history and growth of the Mendel company is interesting. In 1891 Hyman Mendel, founder and president of the company, started a retail store. The business prospered and in 1900 it was enlarged with the addition of a wholesale department, which, temporarily, was limited to a house business. In 1913 it was decided to concentrate on jobbing. The company moved to larger quarters. Continued growth, plus the gradual shift of wholesale houses to another part of the city made necessary a further move in 1921 to their present location at 185 Pryor street, S. W., where they now own and completely occupy a four-story building in the center of the wholesale district.

From Atlanta, as a natural distributing center, H. Mendel & Company travel seven men, covering Georgia, the Piedmont section of South Carolina, northern Alabama and northern Florida. Hyman Mendel continues as the active head of the company, ably assisted by his son, Simon I. Mendel, as secretary and treasurer, and Sol Romm, vice president and sales manager.

Whole Family On Honeymoon Delayed 7 Years
STATESBORO, Ga., Aug. 14.—After seven years of married life, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hart, of Statesboro, took their honeymoon trip, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hart were married in Ridgeland, S. C., and planned a honeymoon but put it off from year to year. Last week they went to Miami, Fla., carrying their three children with them.

Mr. Hart stated that they thought it nice that their children could also enjoy the postponed honeymoon. They are Jean Constance, Shirley Anne and Jimmie Eugene. The oldest is five years and the youngest 13 months.

HARLAND COMPANY
PRODUCES MONTHLY
2 MILLION CHECKS

Well-Known Atlanta Printers Serve Scores of Bankers in the Southeast.

An indication of how well some of Atlanta's leading manufacturing plants are recognized and patronized throughout the southeast is revealed in the fact that over 2,000,000 bank checks are lithographed or printed here each month and sent to various banks into the states of Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Tennessee, North and South Carolina.

This amount of this one type of printing is the work of the John H. Harland Company, with manufacturing departments housed in a specially constructed daylight building at the corner of Highland avenue and Jackson street, and with uptown sales office at 8 Pryor street, adjacent to the entrance to the Ten Pryor building.

The Harland company is generally recognized, and most favorably, too, as commercial lithographers and printers, handling practically all types of black and white as well as color lithography and printing, but it has within the past few years drawn to itself large business in the production of bank checks for scores of financial institutions over the southeast.

The company was organized in 1923 by John H. Harland, who was and is still its president. Its growth has been steady, serving not only Atlanta, but the southeastern states, and its printing and lithographing departments are recognized as being among the best in the southeast. It specializes in the production of high-grade commercial, bank and security work, as well as color lithography.

One of its best-known and most popular products is its new flat-opening check book, in which the checks are bound into the book by a series of small rings, permitting checks and stubs to lie perfectly flat when book is in use. It is this most convenient form of check book that is so popular with the banks of the southeast, and which is bringing to them orders for the more than two million checks per month.

In their up-town sales offices on Pryor street the company has established a retail stationery store, in which all types of office appliances and supplies are stocked, making this quite a convenience to workers and others in the large office buildings of the city.

STATESBORO COUNCIL VOTES HEALTH BOARD

STATESBORO, Ga., Aug. 14.—At its regular session last month, city council passed an ordinance providing for the appointment of a city board of health. The board will be made up of the mayor, the city physician and three citizens, to be named at a later date. The ordinance gives the board

BUY TIRES EASY
BY BUDGET PLAN

Holland Tire Company, Kelly-Springfield Dealers, Tell How 'Tis Done.

There are several questions that John H. Holland, of the Holland Tire Company, 28-30 Ivy street, S. E., is always ready to spring on motorists — and they are questions of vital importance, too. For instance, he asks: "Why risk great odds in riding on tires that are smooth and thin, when safety insurance costs about 75 cents per 1,000 miles?"

And then he tells the motorist that he can ride so much more relaxed and worry-free on new, safe tires. "Usually they thank us for this reminder," said Mr. Holland, "because we show them how to figure 'what price safety.'"

The Holland Tire Company has been selling exclusively "Kelly-Springfield" tires at its place on Ivy street, in the Ivy Street Garage building, for 12 years or more. He adds this to what he is quoted as saying above: "It doesn't pay to slip, slide or worry along thin, smooth tread, especially when you can usually trade them in for all they're worth."

Many motorists, declares Mr. Holland, are now taking advantage of the liberal budget plan his company is offering on Kelly-Springfield tires. This plan makes it easy for them to buy these well-known tires—tires with a reputation for easy riding and for long and safe wear. Another thing, he pointed out, was that the construction of this tire contributes not only to easier riding, but also has an important value in easing jolts and strains on the mechanism of the car, and the bigger, thicker, non-skid tread of the Kelly-Springfield gives longer wear and longer and more complete non-skid protection in all kinds of weather.

The Holland company, besides its new tire service, maintains one of the most complete tire rebuilding departments in this section, and a repair and vulcanizing department, both manned by expert men who have achieved more than local reputation for the quality of their work.

In the retreading department old tires with sound carcasses are completely rebuilt with new non-skid treads of high quality live rubber to give additional mileage comparable to the mileage of a new tire.

The right and power to enter any place of business or residence for the purpose of making any investigations they may deem necessary to protect the health and welfare of the city. It further provides for the inspection of foods, meats, milk, fruits, vegetables and any other articles of food offered for sale here.

Gold Shield Proves Its Helpfulness at Moving Time

Upholstered furniture and rugs being unloaded at the Gold Shield cleaning plant. It is a popular custom among Atlantans to send such articles to be cleaned before moving, having Gold Shield deliver them to their new address. Launderers and dry cleaners in the Gold Shield group are American, Capital City, Decatur, Excelsior, Guthman, May's, Piedmont, Trio and Troy-Peerless.

GOLD SHIELD TAKES
MANY HEADACHES
OUT OF MOVING TIME

Nine Prominent Launderers and Dry Cleaners Make Up Gold Shield Group.

S. R. Greenblatt, president of the Gold Shield group of launderers and dry cleaners, states that moving statistics seem to prove the period between August 15 and September 15 is M. and Mrs. Atlanta's most favorite time for changing their place of residence. "Bearing their place of residence," Mr. Greenblatt, "Gold Shield intensifies its efforts to be of real assistance, for even at its best, moving provides plenty of hard work and inconvenience for every member of the family."

The Gold Shield group is composed of nine prominent launderers and dry cleaners: American, Capital City, Excelsior, Guthman, May's, Piedmont, Trio and Troy-Peerless in Atlanta, and Decatur, Atlanta, in Decatur. A telephone call to any one of them will put the entire Gold Shield facilities at the disposal of any of its patrons. When a move is made into new surroundings, defects in furnishings which may have remained unnoticed by members of the family in the old, familiar surroundings, are brought to the attention of the Gold Shield group. That condition obtains because new surroundings make members of the family have the same observant eyes that strangers walking into a household always have.

How? The Gold Shield group, in making the new home attractive, for Gold Shield cleans upholstered furniture, window shades, curtains, drapes, rugs and carpets. Gold Shield cleaning is truly a rejuvenating beauty treatment. Each piece is carefully handled by experts to produce the best results. Not only new beauty is recaptured, but new life is also added. For soil, dirt and frequent cleaning protects them.

Gold Shield also places its master dyeing service at the disposal of the housewife. If a new color scheme to harmonize with new walls and woodwork is desired, rugs, carpets, curtains and drapes can be successfully dyed to newly attractive colors. There is no charge for consultation and estimates along this line. The head of the Gold Shield dyeing department is well known as an authority on color choice for interior decorating, and his services are at the disposal of any one who will telephone any one of the Gold Shield group.

It really is a convenience to call Gold Shield into the picture when moving is taking place. For rugs and carpets can be cleaned and placed upon the floors of the new home before the other furniture is brought in, thereby eliminating any difficulty in the proper laying of the floor coverings. And, quite frequently, there is money saved in drapery costs when Gold Shield is called to get the rugs and the upholstered furniture before the moving van is called, because there is less to be handled by the movers.

Free Storage Period.
Gold Shield allows a free storage period of 30 days for articles picked up from an old address to be delivered to a new one. Therefore the housewife has ample time to get the things she wants cleaned out of the house. She designates the exact time she wants them delivered to her new address. If something should interfere with the date she had set for moving, she could have the articles kept by Gold Shield a few days longer. Cleaning charges are not collected until the articles are delivered.

Of course, Gold Shield's cleaning service for household furnishings is not limited to people who are moving. There is a definite house-cleaning season in the fall here in Atlanta, and many housewives choose that time to have their household furnishings put into attractive shape.

Another popular service at this season of the year is that of washing quilts and blankets. In lots of five, assorted as the housewife wishes, the cost is extremely small. And each quilt or blanket is returned soft, fluffy, beautifully clean and sterilized, wrapped in heavy paper to preserve the cleanliness until fall and winter come.

DAWSON COUNCIL ALTERS RUM LAW Grants Third License, Permits Rear Doors.

DAWSON, Ga., Aug. 14.—The Dawson city council, in special session Friday night, revised its recently adopted rules which previously had been prescribed for retail liquor stores in this city. The law was revised permitting a rear exit in case of fire, and would permit the operator to dispose of empty cartons other than pile them on the sidewalk in front of his place of business. The council also approved a third application for a retail liquor license to Owen Gelse, who is to open a retail liquor store. Retail liquor license had previously been issued to Joe Nassar and Don Jones. Thus the city of Dawson has legal liquor again after a lapse of 31 years.

Stop Worrying and Treat Insomnia With Exercise

By Ida Jean Kain.

There isn't a word of truth in the old saying that you must get your beauty sleep before midnight, or that one hour of sleep before midnight is worth two hours afterwards. It's all sleep if you can get enough of it, but the chances are that you are an insomniac of one kind or another.

Insomnia comes in three different brands—trouble getting to sleep, fitful sleeping or dysomnia, and waking up hours before it is time to get up. With sleeping drugs being sold like apples, it would seem that most of the people in this jittery world are, for one reason or another, plagued with sleeplessness. Suffice it to say that this is not an article on sedatives. If you are to keep well, you must lick your insomnia through more hygienic methods.

Insomnia is not a disease, it's a symptom—not that you are losing your mind, or that you are in danger of a nervous breakdown, but probably that you worry too much, have indigestion or take insufficient exercise.

You cannot switch off your thoughts with the lights, and if you add to your other worries the fear of being unable to sleep, you can count on having insomnia. More than 60 per cent of insomnia is said to be caused by the fear of it, and the fear that because of it the night's rest will be inadequate. Now, nobody knows how much sleep we need, anyway, and lying down at complete rest is considered almost as good as sleeping. If you could only sell yourself the idea that you are getting adequate rest and that it really did not matter whether or not you went to sleep on time, you would eliminate the worst result of insomnia, which is worry. Moreover, you would probably find yourself dropping off to sleep with little ado about it!

Waking up during the night is usually caused by indigestion. If you are a fitful sleeper, it would be a good idea either to have a light evening meal or to have your evening meal much earlier. Coffee and other stimulants do keep some people awake, but, as one doctor has pointed out, much of the

Tree Inclines As the Twig Is Bent

By Caroline Chatfield.

Here's a tale that should shame some fond and foolish parents who fold their hands in resignation and confess that their children have them down. An interne in a large city hospital tells me that 3-year-old diabetic babies have been taught to give themselves hypodermic injections of insulin; and that after getting the hang of it, they much prefer their own technique to that of doctors and nurses.

Quite as remarkable is his statement that children less than 5 years old have been trained to weigh their food regularly, counting calories and measuring grams like experts, never cheating, never giving themselves more food than their blood can tolerate.

How does that fall on the ears of adoring mother who giggles apologetically and says, "I know it's terrible for this child to sit up so late but she refuses to go to bed and I can't do a thing with her." Or on the ears of the fond father who bellows at his baby son to stop making such a racket while son doesn't let up long enough to hear the order?

Of course there's something comical in the spectacle of a couple of husky adults, lashed to the mast by a curly headed, chubby-faced bit of humanity. But it's the discipline that only his parents can give him, and if they short-change him, he's a nuisance while he's little, likely to be a problem child when he's adolescent and from there out nobody can predict with accuracy, though the galleys are usually mentioned as his destination by the grown-ups who have had a load of his insufferable manners.

One of the queerest things about it is that frequently these dotting parents are sensible people, quick enough to see the mistakes their neighbors and friends are making in pampering and spoiling their children, but absolutely blind to their own mistakes. When the neighbor's child gives his parents some slackjaw they are frank to say his neck should be wrung; yet when their darling answers back they swell with pride over his gift for repartee.

When the visiting playmate grabs the biggest slice of cake he's a pig but when Junior reaches for it, he's showing signs of the go-getting spirit which is what they wish to see.

Of course Junior hasn't got a chance to learn self-control. He's bound to grow up believing that the world revolves about him and that life is going to give him what his parents gave him; right of way. He's not going to study at school unless he has a taste for books. He's not going to be amenable to discipline unless he happens on the accident of a teacher who has the knack of appealing to his better instincts.

The little diabetics who are being taught to give themselves hypodermics, count their calories and weigh their food will have a better chance in life than Junior, however fine a physical specimen he may be because they have learned, what he hasn't, self-control through discipline.

Titian-haired Arleen Whelan chooses blue, gray and white as the color combination for this midsummer costume. The jumper blouse is of double-faced blue satin crepe and the box-pleated skirt is of gray crepe. The two sports bracelets are of white buckskin, studded like a cowboy's saddle with silver and multicolored stones.

Pre-Fall Fashion Parade Of Hollywood Beauties

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 14.—Titian-haired Arleen Whelan, who jumped into public attention with "Kidnapped," has a picturesque sense of clothes. Her new pre-fall outfit, a jumper blouse of double-faced blue satin crepe, with box-pleated skirt in gray crepe, is accompanied by two sports bracelets of white buckskin, studded like a cowboy's saddle with silver and multicolored stones. The color combination—blue, gray and white—is pleasing.

Lates Hollywood fad—unusual buttons. Glenda Farrell was first prize with buttons on a bush jacket which represent the heads of the legend, "Rich Man, Poor Man, Beggarman, Thief." "Rich Man" has a plump face and silk top; "Poor Man" is a gaunt face with shapely hat; "Beggarman" is a head wearing dark glasses, and "Thief" wears a checked cap and has a cigarette in the side of his mouth.

Trailer vacationers please note: "Margaret Lindsay, who is spending part of her vacation in a luxurious rented trailer while she sees southwest America first, took along a stunning costume designed by Orry-Kelly. Her divided skirt is of a firm wool jersey in a copper brown shade, with a linen shirtmaker blouse in rust. A sleeveless jerkin of wood green jersey buttons at both sides. At the neck is a small tri-cornered paisley scarf. Copper brown buckskin shoes, built high over the instep, and an antelope hat of the same color complete the costume. Dixie Dunbar, who soon returns to the screen in Universal's "Freshman Year," wears in the picture a costume combining beige wool with rust-brown velvet. The dress is a one-piece, with a bolero of brown velvet stitched into the garment. The tailored collar is also brown velvet, and tiny brown velvet buttons fasten the front of the dress to the bottom of the bolero. The full-shouldered sleeves are beige, but finished with brown velvet cuffs. The swing skirt has three flared gores front and back. The matching brown felt hat has a snappy brim, trimmed with a jaunty beige feather.

(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

A more tailored type of costume is worn by Constance Moore, featured player in the same picture—heavy royal blue silk crepe dress of shirtmaker style. The bodice has shoulder yoke with triple tucks on each side. Large white buttons in the shape of leaves fasten at the front, and additional light blue polka collar and cuffs are set on top of collar and cuffs of the royal blue crepe. The latter are fastened with tiny links composed of white leaves. The straight skirt has kick pleat front and back. Encircling Miss Moore's waist is a wide machine-stitched belt with large round buckle of self-material. The accompanying hat is in royal blue felt, with flared brim tilted at the side.

Ann Sheridan's floor-length flannel coat in three shades of blue is more attractive than it sounds. The side-buttoned bodice with high military neckline is navy, the full circular skirt of smoky gray blue, and the wide front-laced belt a bright Swedish blue. With it, Ann wears white gloves with chevrons of the three blue shades on their backs.

Rigid Muscles Versus Weak Muscles

By Dr. William Brady.

Certain individuals who have well developed or even overdeveloped muscles are subject to a peculiar rigidity of certain muscles or all the muscles which occurs on attempting any sudden movement or action. They are "muscle-bound." Ordinarily the term "muscle-bound" means merely that inelasticity and slowness or clumsiness of movement which results from hypertrophy of muscles from excessive exercise or from constant exertion of strength—such as weight-lifting feats.

The rigidity or spasmodic tension of muscles to which we refer is a condition that runs in families. It is sometimes called Thomsen's disease, because a Dr. Thomsen first described numerous instances in his own family. The medical name for it is myotonia, which means muscle tone or tension. The condition is really not a disease, for it does not progress or in any way affect health; it is rather a peculiarity. Although there is an increased mechanical excitability of the muscles, and the muscular rigidity or tenseness increases with excitement, there is no increased excitability or irritability of nerves, in fact there is generally diminished excitability of nerves.

Myotonia is nearly if not quite opposite to a more distressing malady known as myasthenia, which means weakness and quick fatigability of muscles. In myasthenia the individual may have difficulty in chewing, in swallowing or in speaking, facts which quickly tire the muscles and become impossible of repetition until a rest restores, in some degree, the power to function.

Characteristic of many cases of myasthenia is the pathetic expression due to drooping eyelids and sagging of all the facial lines, together with the patient's inability to smile. In most instances the first muscles to manifest increased fatigability are those used in focusing the eyes and when these muscles tire the patient has blurring of vision and later perhaps diplopia (double vision). Along with this there is generally some ptosis or drooping of the upper eyelids and evidently inability of the patient to open the eyes widely. The facial expression or lack of it, together with the great weakness of certain muscles or flabbiness of all muscles sometimes leads to the suspicion of melancholia or other psychoneurosis but as a rule the patient's mind is perfectly clear and normal, aside from the worry or anxiety any one might feel from such a condition.

In recent years a new medicine, prostigmin, has given highly satisfactory results in myasthenia. The effect of a single dose (by hypodermic injection) is extraordinary, restoring nearly or quite normal function to the affected muscles, but this effect wears off after a few hours. There is no harm in repeating the dose two or three times a day—in some cases such a plan of treatment restores the patient to active life, puts him or her back on the job.

For the amelioration of the excessive rigidity or spasm of muscles in myotonia an old familiar medicine, taken in pill or tablet by mouth, has been found as effective as prostigmin is for myasthenia. Two or three grains of quinine sulphate after food three times a day will overcome the muscular rigidity in myotonia.

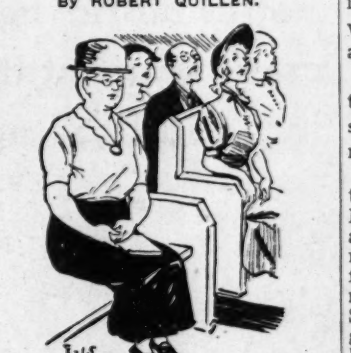

In any case where two or three grains of quinine two or three times a day (for the adult weighing 150 pounds), or less in proportion with weight for a lighter or younger person, seems to give relief or benefit, there is no reason why it cannot be continued for two or three months at that dose, and then after a rest of a month or two the quinine may be resumed at about half of the former dose, and taken indefinitely, if it seems to help. This applies not only to myotonia but to any other condition for which quinine is used.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Congenital Dislocation of Hip.
What causes a baby to be born with dislocated hip? Is such a baby deformed, or might it happen while the baby is being brought into the world? (Mrs. C. M.)

Answer—It is a developmental fault—the rim in the socket in the hip bone fails to develop sufficiently to prevent the head of the thigh bone from slipping out of joint. No known cause. May happen in any family.

MY DAY: Country Boys, Same as City

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—I don't know if other authors feel as I do when a copy of a new book first appears from the publishers, but I always have a little sense of wonder that I actually wrote so many words and that anyone thought it worthwhile to publish them! This morning there came into my hands a new book. It will not be out until the 22d, so I really cannot tell you about it, but I can't help imparting a little of my own thrill.

Not long ago someone sent me an article by a very well-known journalist who proved that, as a family, we all like publicity, for otherwise we would not write so much and talk so much and do so many things that put us in print, or in the public eye in one way or another. The gentleman forgets that it is not entirely our own doings which put us in the public eye. But I fear I must plead guilty to the writing and the talking, for I did both before my husband became President and I hope I shall continue to do so after he ceases to be President.

I have no illusions about being a great speaker or a great writer but I think in some of us there is an urge to do certain things. If we did not do them, we would feel that we were not fulfilling the job which we had been given opportunities and talents to do. Frequently, too, there is an objective approach to oneself in writing one's activities. In much of my own life, for instance, I start back and look at myself and think: "That isn't you as an individual, that is you as the personage you may happen to have been for that period of time." I imagine that comes from having been a shy child with very little personality and having become accustomed to do things because they were expected of me and not because I wanted to do them.

Today has a touch almost of autumn, which is frequently so August. I do not like it, for I realize how quickly the next few weeks will fly by.

I thought the flies would all have been blown out of the woods by the breeze we have had in the last few days, so after several weeks during which I have not ridden, I took my horse this morning and went through the backwoods to see what was happening. My husband's "retreat." Then we went on to see a little farmhouse the place which some boys broke into the other night. The flies still bothered the horses but I obtained an idea of what the extent of the damage. It is well to learn when you are young that the instinct of vandalism is a dangerous one, and I hope these youngsters will find that this little escapade of theirs really was not worthwhile.

cannot help feeling, however, that we ought to do something to provide country boys, as well as city boys, with some place where they can seek recreation and occupation when they are out of school or out of work.

WHEN YOU BUY A LOT.

Don't let somebody high-pressure you into buying a building lot till you've investigated its various qualifications in detail.

Otherwise they cannot be measured by a surveyor nor guaranteed with the abstract—those things that make a vacant lot a potential homestead. And it's just as well not to take a real estate agent's word for the vital points about a piece of property. . . . look them up yourself. For the neighbors, the schools, the transportation are as important as the big oak tree or the clump of lilacs bushes in your future satisfaction with the lot.

Fairly Accurate.

Are the people near by the type you want to live among? From visits to the schools and the churches, investigations of the clubs and local civic organizations, inspection of the parks and the library, you can glean a fairly accurate idea of the people in the district. Not only the scholastic rating of the school system, but the nearness of the school and the absence of dangerous crossings, convenience to church, park, library and shopping are added advantages.

TODAY'S CHARM TIP

An enormous amount of charm is lost to women because so many see themselves not as others see them but as they think others see them.

Charming Aprons By Lillian Mae

For smart wives who make housekeeping one of the "fine arts," Lillian Mae has created these enchanting aprons, both from the one Pattern 4591. You'll be doing the right thing if you stitch up several for your friends as well as yourself—since they make such appreciated gifts. See how slender the waistline looks, and how becoming each of the necklines are! Why not add ric-rac or ruffles, they give such a dressed-up air. Pick colors that repeat a shade in your bright percale or cretonne. With big, handy pockets, and a little tie belt, you have something to be proud of—especially since the making is so simple.

Pattern 4591 is available in sizes small, medium and large. Small size, view A, takes 2-1/4 yards 36-inch fabric and 2-7/8 yards ric-rac; view B, 2-1/4 yards 36-inch fabric and 1-3/4 yards ruffing.

Declarer Sometimes Solves Problem By Ruffing Loser

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Lacking sufficient winners to project the stripping process necessary to any squeeze play, declarer frequently is able to solve the problem by ruffing a loser to complete his uninterrupted pressure—leads against adversaries.

COUNTS TWO LOSERS.
With the contract seven diamonds, declarer counts seven trump tricks, one heart, two spades and one club, leaving two losers . . . one in hearts and one in spades.

Without a squeeze the contract is hopeless for even though South's losing spade is ruffed with a trump from dummy, declarer still loses a heart.

But a squeeze situation may be developed.

South's Heart Queen furnishes the necessary one-card threat . . . dummy's Ace-Ten of clubs supplies the two-card threat.

Barbara Bell's First Fall Dress

Here's a lovely design with just the air of decided newness and chic that you want in a dress to greet the fall. It has the new sleeves, peaked up at the top, the smooth-hipped, almost straight skirt, and the bodice detailing that gives a definite bustline. Everything about this design, in fact, will give you the thrill of a new season. It's an excellent basic type, too. Give it an entirely different look by wearing it with clips or a novelty necklace, instead of the flower.

In a small-figured silk print with a dark background, in flat crepe or rayon jersey, this dress will look very charming. Yet it's easy to make; the detailed sew chart explains every step.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1586-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 14 (32) requires 4-5/8 yards of 39-inch material, with short sleeves. Five yards with long sleeves.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Do not send stamps.

Sent 15 cents for the Barbara Bell Fall and Winter Fashion Pattern Book. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming clothes, selecting designs from the Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns.

Change Weight For Beauty's Sake

THREE-DAY LIQUID DIET A FINE START.

All smiles is Mrs. Plump—thinking how slim she'll look in her new fall clothes. Her low-calory diet is going to take off 14 pounds in seven weeks.

"A toast to my new figure," she says, sipping the first glassful in a three-day liquid diet which will break off old high-calory habits, tune up her system for her slimming program.

Mrs. Plump's bulges crept up on her because she consistently took about 1,000 more fattening calories every day than she needed. She'd nibble four or five pieces of fudge, 100 calories each—have lemon meringue pie, 450 calories, as a mid-afternoon snack.

Now, by cutting to 1,200 calories daily for the next three days, she'll quickly burn up her surplus fat—and do it without a hungry pang.

There are lots of delicious low-calory foods, the calory charts show. No harm to your figure to munch a bag of popcorn—100 calories, even to have an occasional piece of plain cream meringue pie—225 calories.

As for your regular meals, you cheerfully give up such bulge-makers as gravy and mayonnaise once you realize you can get gloriously slender on satisfying meals like this one:

One cup consomme, 1 slice lean roast beef, 1 good-sized baked tomato, 1-2 cup green peas, 1 buttered roll, black coffee, 1 slice apple sauce cake. Only 465 calories.

Start now to slip off the pounds with the help of our 40-page booklet, "Change Your Weight For Beauty's Sake." Two weeks' low-calory menus. Easy to adapt to family meals. Calory chart. Exercises. How to gain, too.

Send 15 cents for our booklet, "CHANGE YOUR WEIGHT FOR BEAUTY'S SAKE," to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

DeLuxe Traveling Kit Is Smart Convenient And Economical

By Lillian Mae (Posed by Madeleine Carroll)

I find it practically impossible to travel—whether for a day, week end or a longer trip—without one of the compact, practical kits for toilet preparations. No longer need they roll around and spill on best dresses, when there are so many attractive as well as useful kits to hold them.

I've just run across a new one —which is about the most complete I've seen. The contents alone would cost more than the price of the entire package, if bought in separate items.

The finish is natural rawhide, and both interior and exterior are washable. It makes a beautiful piece of travel luggage itself, or because of its shape and compactness fits into a regular suitcase.

Georgian to Wear Uncle's Confederate Uniform at Chickamauga

Colonel Telamon Cuyler Planning To Attend September Celebration

By Sally Forth.

AMONG distinguished southern visitors planning to attend the Chickamauga celebration in Chattanooga in September is Colonel Telamon Cuyler, a native of this state whose forbears were conspicuous figures in the Confederate army during the War Between the States. Colonel Cuyler's great-uncle, General Preston Smith, made the supreme sacrifice in the renowned Battle of Chickamauga, where a monument is erected to his memory.

Another great-uncle of the Georgian recorded in southern history as a distinguished Confederate officer was Colonel J. Cooper Nesbit, of Chattanooga. During the celebration to be staged on the hallowed ground around Chickamauga where hundreds of Confederate soldiers fell in battle, Colonel Cuyler will wear the complete uniform of his uncle, Colonel Nesbit.

Colonel Cuyler will take an active part in the official affairs planned in connection with the celebration as well as in the social activities to be given during this historic event. Colonel Cuyler will visit his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Ezell, at their home on Highland Mountain, during the celebration and will be one of the most colorful figures marching in the parade.

Colonel Cuyler's name has figured prominently recently in news comment regarding the prospective filming of "Gone With the Wind," inasmuch as his state in Jones county, Georgia, is almost identical with the now famous, though fictional, O'Flara place. In fact, Colonel Cuyler has been mentioned for the part of John Ashley, one of the leading characters in the famous novel.

THE CHRISTENING of Baby George David Anderson III, which took place yesterday at the Episcopal church in LaGrange, attracted the presence of many prominent Georgians. The little boy's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Anderson Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Northcutt and Carol Northcutt formed a congenial group motoring from Marietta to LaGrange for the occasion.

The baby is the fifth member of the Anderson family to bear the name of George Davis, his parents being among the south's early leaders. Mrs. Anderson, the little boy's mother, is the former Jean Lovat Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Webster Cole, of New York.

Godfathers for the little boy were R. C. Anderson, of Marietta, the baby's uncle, and Fletcher Cole, son of Mrs. Fitzgibbon Lee and the late Captain Harry Cole, brother of D. C. Cole, of Marietta. Mrs. Margaretrazier King, of Seattle, Wash., the baby's aunt, accepted the boy as godmother for the little boy.

Castle Playhouse Opens on Friday

Miss Paula Causey, supervising director of Atlanta Theater Guild, announces the opening of the Castle Playhouse of the guild at 87 1/2 street, on Friday evening at 8 o'clock, with a pre-season of three one-act plays.

The stage, which was designed by Vernon Williams, general manager of the guild, and constructed under his supervision, is comparable in size and facility to that of the famous Provincetown Playhouse, and the architecture and atmosphere of the building the guild has had as its headquarters for the past year, lends itself to the creation of a charming interior. The three plays programmed for the first bill are "The Farewell Supper," by Arthur Schnitzler, directed by Edith Satorius, with Walter Paschal, Edith Satorius, Orin Borsten and Thron as the cast.

"When the Sun Rises," by Dorothy C. Allan. Directed by Paul Kohn, with Mary Nell Kohn, Melvin Everitt and Helen Kohn.

"The Boor" by Anton Chekhov, directed by Edwin Peeples with Elizabeth Buchanan, Marion Hildebrand and Harry Berman as the cast.

Luncheons To Fete Miss Van Spalding Prior to Marriage

Miss Van Hiliard Spalding, whose marriage to Jack Spalding Schroeder will be an important social event of August 24, forms the inspiration for many delightful parties to be given this month.

The initial party planned in Miss Spalding's honor will be the luncheon at which Miss Mary Elizabeth Barge will be hostess on Wednesday at her home at 2730 Habersham road, the affair to assemble a limited number of friends of the honor guest.

On Thursday, Miss Spalding shares honors with Mrs. Frank Ridley Jr., a popular recent bride, at the luncheon at which Miss Eleanor Spalding will entertain at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Covers will be laid for the hostess, the honor guests, Mesdames Harvey Hill Jr., Ed Smith Jr., A. H. Sterne Jr., Randolph Hearst, Rufus Darby Jr., Jack Kallhurst, Misses Emma Middlebrooks, Elkin Goddard, June Spalding, Mary Elizabeth Barge and Rosemary Manry.

Luncheon Honors Popular Bride-Elect

Miss Caroline McCarley entertained Saturday at a luncheon at her home in West End complementing Miss Mary Seabrook Smith, popular bride-elect. The hostess was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. P. D. McCarley and Mrs. McWhorter Miller.

The beautifully appointed table was overlaid with a pink damask cloth and centered with a pottery ring holding an arrangement of pink roses in the middle of which was a miniature bride and groom. On either end of the table were silver candlesticks holding burning white tapers and the places of the guests were marked by place cards of the bride's motif.

Covers were laid for the hostess, the honor guest, Mrs. Tom Ross, Mrs. Charles Manry, Mrs. Robert McMichael, and Misses Caroline Smith, Palmer Smith, Millard Ruis, Jacqueline Howard, Betsy White, Marjorie McMichael and Anne McCarley.

Gordon-Shapiro Rites Solemnized

MRS. IRVIN D. SHAPIRO.

The interest of a wide circle of friends centers in the announcement made today by Ben R. Gordon of the marriage of his sister, Miss Ida Gordon, to Irvin D. Shapiro, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. I. Shapiro, of Chattanooga.

The wedding took place yesterday in the study of The Temple. Rabbi David Marx officiated in the presence of members of the immediate family.

After a trip through the Smoky Mountain National Park, the couple will reside at 328 Ponce de Leon avenue.

Camp Civitania Closes Fourteenth Successful Season With Banquet

Camp Civitania for Atlanta Girl Scouts closed a successful 14th season on Saturday with a birthday banquet given by the campers and counselors. Among the full season of these years and Ann Joiner. Those who have been at Camp Civitania for two years are Dorothy Kinnitt, Jean Dodd, Marion Leathers, Joan McClintock and Martha Jean Gower. Decorations were in green and white and after the banquet each unit presented in pantomime outstanding events of past camping seasons, ending with a skit of this year's activities.

A feature of this summer's camping program has been the preparation of outdoor meals by the girls. The older girls averaged at least one meal out each day and the younger units cooked out four or more meals each week during the summer.

A badminton tournament Saturday finished a season of enthusiastic participation by all-age girls. Competition in archery was also held. This sport, with Miss Mary Bachelder in charge, has been very popular in camp this year. The swimming program this summer has been under the direction of Miss Marie Stalker, of the Atlanta Examiner's Club.

Nineteen girls passed their Junior Red Cross life-saving tests, three passed their senior life-saving tests and 61 girls reached the rank of Red Cross swimmer, and 39 girls learned to swim at camp this year.

A group of 20 experienced campers returned last week from a trip to Vogel State park and the "Top of the World" unit returned Friday from an overnight hike. Throughout the summer overnight hikes have been taken by each group of campers every two-week period. The last of the early morning bird hikes, under the direction of Miss Vera McElveen, was taken on Saturday. An extensive study of birds in camp has been made by all groups and each camper has had the privilege of participating in these hikes. One unit took as their nature project the keeping of a diary of the daily happenings in a wren's nest near the tent.

The Brownies' first season in camp was a very successful one. They built and watched a frog farm as their nature quest and participated in all activities. The total attendance at Camp Civitania, which has been under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Mitchell Forsythe, was 203 girls during the eight-week season, and included girls from all over Georgia.

Clifton Road Garden Club Holds Meeting.
Clifton Road Garden Club met recently at the home of Mrs. M. T. Harrison, John Terrell and M. T. Harrison Sr. as co-hostesses.

The president, Mrs. Hyllyer Smith, presided, and the meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Mary Harrison. The president announced that club membership would be closed with the August meeting. Mrs. E. C. Houston told members of their responsibility as members of the Garden Club of Georgia and asked that each person photograph some especially lovely flower in her garden in order that one could be submitted to the Garden Center. C. A. Matthews, county commissioner, was introduced by Mrs. W. S. McCurdy, project chairman, and it was voted that Mr. Matthews be elected to regular membership in the club.

Mrs. H. M. Shaver suggested that members be asked to plant a garden in front of the sidewalk and street in front of their property.

Mrs. E. C. Houston, program chairman, introduced Dr. W. B. Baker, of Emory University, who gave an instructive talk on "Soil Preparation." Dr. Baker discussed the beautiful sketches of native Georgia wild flowers and suggested that every garden club member should read the book titled "The World is Ours," by Sears. After the meeting, luncheon was served by the hostesses.

Miss Howard Feted At Lovely Party.
Miss Helen Virginia Howard, whose engagement was recently announced to Roy Francis Hahn, of Atlanta, was honored with a shower given at the home of Mrs. Adam Cooper Warfel in Garden Hills on August 11.

Centering the lace covered table was a miniature bridal party arched by valley lilies. Flanked on either side were crystal candelabra holding white tapers. From the crystal chandelier hung white satin ribbons tied at the ends with tiny cellophane bags of pink rice tied with valley lilies for each guest.

The punch bowl was presided over by the co-hostess, Mrs. R. S. Peacock. The bride-to-be was presented with many lovely gifts from her friends. Later in the evening a buffet supper was served.

Guests included Misses Nell Broome, Gladys Fields, Evelyn Hollingsworth, Marilyn Lasseter, Mabel Norvell, Catherine Sisk, Margaret White, Mesdames Bernice Corcoran, Olive Randall, O'Connell Dougherty, Howard Newnan, Paul Simpson.

Vols Overcome 4-Run Lead To Defeat Crackers in Tenth, 6-4

All in the GAME
by Jack Troy

Where that rigorous program of conditioning Manager Paul Richards laid down in spring training and has carried out all season should really help out in the next two weeks.

The Crackers now have 35 games left to play. Nineteen of these games will be played away from home and there is one stretch in there—from August 22 through August 28—when the noble lads must play 11 games in seven days.

That test will tell just how good the Crackers really are. The boys play five games in four days in Chattanooga before returning home for a four-game stand with Knoxville, ending in a double-header next Sunday.

Then they go off on their final road trip to face the seasons biggest test. They will play Nashville six games in four days. Then they go to Memphis for five more games in three days.

After they get through with Memphis they go to Little Rock for three games. That ends the regular season traveling. The Crackers will spend September at home. That is, they play the last 12 games of the season in Ponce de Leon park.

I don't know but what six games in four days will be just as tough on Nashville as Atlanta, at that. And five in three days won't be an touch for Memphis, either. The Crackers admittedly are the finest conditioned team in the league. But even so 11 games in seven days in such weather as this will test any athlete to the limit.

Here is the season's schedule from here on out—

ON THE ROAD.

August 15, 16-16, 17, 18—at Chattanooga.
August 22, 23-23, 24-24, 25—at Nashville.
August 26-26, 27, 28-28—at Memphis.
August 29, 30, 31—at Little Rock.

AT HOME.

August 19, 20, 21-21—Knoxville.
September 2, 3, 4—Memphis.
September 5-5, 6-6, 7—Little Rock.
September 9-9, 10, 11—Chattanooga.

TIMES DO CHANGE.

Fans used to sit tense through a low-scoring game and admire the contest between the rival pitchers. A real pitcher's battle was the thing.

But nowadays the run's the thing. If the home team doesn't go out and put on a base path parade fans are inclined to be a bit bored by it all.

Advent of the lively ball has caused it. Fans in the big leagues as well as the minors favor high-scoring contests. They want to see base hits and action on the base paths.

It would be interesting to check up and see, especially in the majors, just how many more runs they're scoring per game now as compared with the period before the lively ball was introduced.

The difference likely would be startling.

BECKMAN PAYS OFF.

Pitchers have a peculiar pride in their hitting. Some of them had rather have a good hitting average than an especially high pitching average.

Bill Beckman isn't one of these, but he does keep an eye on his average. When the season started, Beckman waged Red Evans, of New Orleans, he would outpitch him. Bill paid off on the last trip.

What Bill should have done was to wager he'd outpitch him. For Beckman's 16 wins stand right alongside the New Orleans' Red Head's best efforts.

At the bat, Evans far outshone Beckman's ability to hit, his team-mates say, is largely in his mind.

NEW LEAGUE RECORD.

Something unprecedented in the memory of the oldest fan occurred prior to the start of the final Nashville-Atlanta game.

The old ceremony at home plate was completely dispensed with. Paul Richards pranced up in his catcher's suit and exchanged lineups with Manager Charley Dressen while the umpires looked on approvingly. Then Kober dashed for first base and Hall took up his stand in back of the plate.

There wasn't a word said about what was a two-base hit—as if they didn't know, anyway—or about any other ground rules which, naturally, remain the same from day to day unless there happens to be an overflow crowd.

President Trammell Scott no doubt inspired this new order of things. It's a splendid innovation and bound to prove popular.

In fact, the Southern league's prexy has made no moves this season that haven't met with popular response.

SUNDAY ATTENDANCE OFF.

Whether it is due to the inroads of night ball or the fact that people more and more are going to the country and the mountains over week ends, the fact remains that Sunday attendance is decreasing.

At first the cause was ascribed to weather conditions and there was a belief expressed that broadcasting of home games might have something to do with smaller attendance.

But there is no Sunday broadcasting now and still the fans are missing. Yesterday's crowd was well below standard.

CACTUS ON HIS EYE.

A small boy, wearing a flashy yellow baseball cap, walked up to Tom Sunkel and asked for his autograph. While Tom was obliging, the youngster asked, "Have you still got that cactus on your eye, Mr. Sunkel?"

ATTRACTIVE CARD.

An attractive program of tiffing is scheduled tonight at Warren arena. Ben Brown, Atlanta's fighting middleweight, meets Tony Fisher, one of the better boys in the class. It's to be another tough test for Brown. The entire card, as arranged by Virgil Warren, is very promising.

A GREAT TRIUMPH.

No Atlanta golfer ever has had more success, locally, than Dr. Julius Hughes. When the president of the Atlanta Golf Association completed his double yesterday it marked the first time any golfer here ever won the city and state in the same year. Hughes had a lot of moral support in his march to the two titles. It ranks as a highly popular triumph.

DANNALS LOSES 1 UP IN FINALS AT CAPITAL CITY

Winner Only Atlantan To Hold Both Titles in Same Year.

By ROY WHITE.

Dr. Julius Hughes, stocky Atlanta dentist, set a new golf record for Atlanta Sunday afternoon on the Capital City Country Club course. Dr. Hughes beat Charlie Dannals Jr., slender Capital City star, 1 up, for Atlanta's amateur championship, a title he has won in the past.

The victory gave Dr. Hughes both the Georgia amateur and Atlanta amateur, a new record for Atlanta's future players. Charlie Black Jr. has held both titles, but in different years.

Dr. Hughes, president of the Atlanta Golf Association, has held practically every golf championship in Georgia. He not only has been a fine player, but has devoted much of his time as a director of the Georgia Amateur Golf Association and president of the Atlanta group to the growth of golf in Georgia.

FINE PUTTING.

A putter, hotter than the blistering sun which beat down heavy on the players and spectators, kept Dannals in the battle in the afternoon round.

Starting with the 8th hole, where he ran a sizable putt into the cup, Dannals had eight straight one-putt greens, and still was all square with Dr. Hughes. Dannals broke his great putting streak at 16, where he went 1 down.

The Capital City medalist came right back at 17 with a 20-footer, which saved the day and prolonged the match to the 18th green, but a pushed drive into the woods cost him a stroke. He went 1 over par and halved the hole but lost the match, 1 up.

That last nine play of the morning round was the finest bit of golf in the tournament.

SQUARE AT TURN.

They were all square at the turn, and both were two strokes over par. Dannals won the 10th with a par, against a bogey for Dr. Hughes. Both got birdies at 12 and Dr. Hughes squared the match at 13 with a birdie. Another birdie at 14, his third in a row, gave Dr. Hughes a one-up advantage. He made it two at 16, but Dannals came back with a birdie at 17 and a par at 18 to square accounts. Dannals started off with a medal, a 74, two strokes over par. He beat B. C. Stowe Jr., 6-5; Dewey Bowen, 2-1; Charlie Barnes, 1 up, and Gene Gaillard, 5-3.

Dr. Hughes, one stroke back with a 75, beat Weldon Branch Jr., 5-4; Jack Bothamley, 5-4; Charlie Nunnally, 2-1, and Cliff Eley, 1 up.

Capital City's players—Dannals, in the championship; Bill Healey, in the consolation; Hugh Nunnally in the third; Bill Cogill, in the fourth, and Dave Black in the second—won a majority of the silverware.

FARED WELL.

Black Rock's players, Gerrard Allen, and Cliff McGaughey, also fared well.

It was the first time in many years that an East Lake player has not won one of the top flight prizes.

Johnny Westmoreland Jr., young son of the former Capital City president, playing in his first tournament, won the runner-up prize in the fifth flight.

Hugh and Charlie Nunnally, also deserve praise for their fine play throughout the tournament.

Public Links Golfers To Leave Thursday

Municipal golfers from all over the city will honor Atlanta's four-man public links team Wednesday night with a dinner at the Coronawave Lodge on Donnelly avenue at Beecher street.

The four will leave Thursday morning to enter the National public links tourney at Cleveland, August 22-27.

Dinner will start at 8 o'clock. The honorees will be Luke Barnes, Ralph Barnes, Charlie Barnes and Fred Owens. Dave Mitchell, president of the Atlanta Public Links Association and national champion in 1934, will play as the city's individual representative.

All municipal golfers are invited. Reservations should be made through one's club professional.

WINS CITY AMATEUR CROWN

Dr. Julius Hughes, president of the Atlanta Golf Association, beat Charlie Dannals Jr., one up, Sunday afternoon on the Capital City course to become the first player to win both the Georgia amateur and the Atlanta amateur titles the same year. Dr. Hughes has won every major golf championship in Atlanta, and also many big events in the state.

Brown and Fisher Each Predict K. O.

Crack Middleweights Fight Tonight at Warren Arena; Preliminaries Are Good.

"The fight won't go the limit and I'll be the winner."—Ben Brown.

"My right hand will decide it before the seventh round."—Tony Fisher.

Those were the final pre-fight statements of the two middleweights who battle 10 rounds or less at the comfortable and cool Warren arena tonight.

They went through brief, but brisk closing workouts yesterday afternoon and even to the most inexperienced eye it was apparent that both men were finely trained and ready for any kind of a fight.

If Brown is able to stop the Newark (N. J.) dynamo, he will have accomplished something that Freddie Steele, Babe Risko, Ken Overlin and Solly Krieger failed to do. Ben admitted he fought Babe Risko to a draw. In that fight, the former champion hit Brown numerous kidney punches and was not penalized, but tonight the city and state commissions are reportedly ready to take action against illegal ring tactics.

Tom McCarthy, a crackerjack young referee, will be third man in the ring for the main bout. Frankie Allen, Atlanta welterweight, faces Red Rice, of New York, in the semi-final, an eight-round.

Harold Glymph, local middleweight, opposes Jack Berry, of Brooklyn, in a six.

Johnny Duckett, Atlanta, engages Frankie Salvatore, of New York, in a four and over the same distance, Billy Martinez, Cartersville, Ga., meets Kid Hatcher, Lake City, S. C.

The card, strong all down the line, begins at 8:30 with a big crowd in prospect.

West End Golfers Take Match, 18 - 12

West End's golfers yesterday defeated John A. White, 18-12, at the West End course.

The West End team was comprised of Edwards, Hunter, Fricksburg, Stowe, Bettels, Clarke, Cook, Ragdale, Smith, Ford, Swiegood, Attaway, Blasingame, Merritt, Purdy, Guest, Turner, Kiser, Landers, H. Clarke, Keel, Chamberlin and Berry.

BROWN BEATS LUKE BARNES IN 2-CLUB PLAY

Medalist Loses 2 Up; Johnson Eliminates Edwards in Upset.

Weldon Johnson and Tom Brown supplied the fireworks for the second round of The Constitution's novel two-club tournament at Piedmont park. Brown beat Luke Barnes, the medalist, 2 up, and Johnson eliminated Charlie Edwards, the runner-up to Barnes, on the 20th green.

Sam Riddick, Dixie Howell and J. A. Vining, three of the low scorers in the qualifying round, also advanced to the quarter-final round.

Quarter-finals will start this morning and must be completed by Thursday night as the semi-finals are scheduled for the latter part of the week.

Several matches in the second round will be completed today, at the request of both participants, since it was impossible to play Saturday or Sunday and neither player wanted to default.

A few minutes later, six hurrying warriors came to the spot where the fugitives had turned off. "Their tracks are plain," said the leader; "we shall soon lay hands upon them. Come!" The warriors followed, with utmost stealth, to recapture the refugees.

Soon the Atharians burst in upon the startled little band. Some tried to run. A shower of spears fell upon them. Had, Ben and the others fled? They knew they could not escape. Now the Atharian warriors had caught them in a tight trap!

TAMMANY LEADER FACES TRIAL TODAY IN POLICY RACKET

Dixie Davis Is Principal Witness Against James J. Hines.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(UP) James J. (Jimmy) Hines, the Tammany boss, goes to trial tomorrow charged with operating a political racket which involved protection to the $100,000,000 policy racket which the late Dutch Schultz brought to a peak of profitable efficiency before being rubbed out by gangsters.

Principal witness against Hines will be Schultz's lawyer, J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, the dapper mouthpiece who pleaded guilty in an apparent deal with Thomas E. Dewey, who hopes to hang Hines' scalp alongside that of Lucky Luciano, the vice lord Dewey imprisoned.

Visited Sweetheart. Davis turned state's evidence after being allowed to visit his sweetheart, a red-haired showgirl, Hope Dare, Miss Dare, who lived with Davis in a Philadelphia hide-away, was reported to have persuaded him to "tell all" in return for partial immunity.

Hines is charged specifically with "confriving, drawing and proposing a lottery," but the indications are that the indictment rests largely upon evidence which purports to show that the gray-haired politician served up protection to the Schultz gang, allegedly taken over in some measure by Davis after Schultz was slain.

This, according to Dewey, involved the bribery, intimidation or influencing of at least two magistrates and William C. Dodge, the Tammany district attorney whom Dewey succeeded. The magistrates named by Dewey were Hulen Capshaw, social registrator, and Francis J. Erwin, now dead.

Slaying Mystery. All but Davis have denied everything. The mystery of who killed Schultz, or rather who ordered him killed with his three comrades in the back room of a Newark saloon on October 25, 1935, will permeate the whole trial. The whole story, if it is told, will revert at some time to the prostitution racket dominated by Luciano until Dewey sent him to prison. And it may make deep thrusts into the municipal judiciary system and its link with the political machines which make judges.

Davis allegedly took over the racket which Schultz relinquished in death. There is ground for speculation that Luciano coveted the racket but was stopped by

JAMES J. HINES.

Dewey's drive against his career in vice.

No Secret. Hines made no secret of his friendship with Schultz. They were seen together frequently at night clubs, at fights in Madison Square Garden and in restaurants frequented by the sporting fraternity. Part of the district of which Hines was leader takes in a section of Harlem, where the Schultz policy racket flourished, where, in fact, the racket still flourishes despite Dewey's drive against its alleged leaders.

Hines' name also has been linked with Larry Fay, the milk racketeer of 1929. When narcotic agents raided a Harlem dive a few years ago they found Hines' name and telephone number on a list of "numbers frequently called" which hung alongside the telephone. The list included such other names as Jack (Legs) Diamond, Jake the Mock, Big Dutch, Big Nose Bill and Dago Frank.

TVA PROBE CHIEF SEEKS ARMY'S AID

Senator Donahey Asks President for Half-Dozen Engineers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Senator Donahey, Democrat, Ohio, chairman of the congressional committee which is investigating the Tennessee Valley Authority, said tonight that he had asked President Roosevelt yesterday to assign "half a dozen" army engineers to work on the "yardstick" angle of the committee's investigation.

Donahey said the President had replied that he would "do everything he could" to aid the committee. He said the committee had been compelled to ask for the army engineers because congress had not given it sufficient funds to hire experts to study the cost of TVA power in its relation to the cost of power produced by private concerns.

Donahey added that previously he had "filed a requisition" with the army engineers for two men but had received no reply. He said he had not asked the President to provide additional funds for the committee's work, "because I knew that no funds were possible."

Congress voted $50,000 for the committee's work. Donahey said he felt that "$50,000 isn't going to go very far."

He said the committee already had the services of "17 or 18" workers from various government agencies.

TWO BOYS, COW KILLED BY FORGOTTEN SHELL

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A high explosive shell, which maneuvering artillerymen forgot, killed two boys and a cow today. The boys found the shell near Sopron after an artillery regiment had moved on. They took it to a barn and began taking it apart with a hammer.

The fire started downstairs, and trapped the two in a room. The husband and three other children also survive.

Fur Flies After Purchase of Cat At $14,400 by St. Louis Museum

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 14.—(AP)—It took a black tom cat to get the St. Louis art public all riled up. It wasn't the cat's whiskers that caused the controversy—for it didn't have any. Neither was it the cat's meow.

But it was "the $14,400 price tag on the homely bronze Egyptian statuette, recently purchased by the City Art museum."

Since the acquisition of the fifth century B. C. figure, allegedly 2,400 years old, many persons have attacked the judgment of the museum in spending that much money for a cat "when relief needs are in desperate plight."

One paper said (in an open letter to a cat): "The same day your arrival was announced the papers carried the pathetic story of the eviction of a widow and her seven children for non-payment of rent. The money spent for you would have paid her rent for 80 years."

A group of striking building workers picketed the city hall, toting signs which read: "14,400 for a useless bronze cat—nothing for labor."

To all of the wrangling the museum's insulated border of control retorted that the purchase of the cat was no mere whim.

"This cat—the most important object of its kind in America—was not modeled out of sentimental regard for a household pet," it said, "but as an enduring symbol of the great goddess, Bastet, protecting the deity of the city of Babastis in the Nile delta."

News of Gate City Told in Paragraphs

Associated Master Beauticians, chapter 847, and Associated Master Barbers, chapter 282, will hold a barbecue at 7 o'clock Wednesday night at "Lakemoore," the Wiley Moore clubhouse on Roswell road, it was announced last night. Dancing and boating will be features.

R. P. Melton, 19, of 108 Georgia avenue, was absolved of blame in recorder's court yesterday in connection with the death last Sunday of Sylvia Anglin, 5, of 344 Grant street, who was killed when the coaster wagon on which she was riding struck a truck driven by Melton at Woodward and Oakland avenues.

Police and defense troops maintained their strict precautions after which resulted in one fatality. Police detained several Japanese in the International Settlement as suspected trouble-makers, but only minor disturbances occurred.

Japanese war dispatches reported new progress in the Yangtze river campaign against Hankow, China's provisional capital, but acknowledged strong Chinese defenses still were stalemating drives from both sides of the river.

Army reports said a Japanese column west of Kiukiang, about 135 miles downriver from Hankow, was pushing steadily toward Juchang and that fall of that strategic city was imminent.

Juchang is a barrier across Japan's path toward the Hangkow-Canton railroad, an artery for war supplies for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's forces. It is about 100 miles southeast of Hankow.

POSSSES' BULLETS ROUT TWO GUNMEN

Pack of Champ Bloodhounds Join Hunt in Arkansas Wilds.

DEQUEEN, Ark., Aug. 14.—(AP)—A small army of peace officers from three states today concentrated on a 10-square mile area in the wilderness of extreme Southwest Arkansas where the notorious Floyd Hamilton, southwestern bad man, and a companion, believed to be the equally desperate Ted Huron Walters, fled following a gun battle with state police yesterday.

Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas police, Texas rangers and approximately 100 deputies sheriff have joined in the search.

Aiding the officers is a pack of bloodhounds headed by the famous Boston, crack manhunter of the Oklahoma state penitentiary at McAlester.

Captain Cliff T. Atkinson, assistant superintendent of the Arkansas state police, and Deputy Sheriff Leslie Dillahunty, of DeQueen ambushed the fugitives north of here yesterday and forced them to abandon a stolen car under a hail of machinegun fire.

The car was riddled but there was no evidence that either of its occupants had been wounded.

FILM ACTRESS, WRITER MAKE WEDDING LEGAL

CARMEL, Cal., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Film Actress Gloria Stuart and Scenario Writer Arthur Grant Sheekman made their marriage legally airtight today by going through a civil ceremony before Judge George F. Ross.

They were married in Agua Caliente four years ago, but a California court questioned legality of Mexican ceremonies.

MOTHER SAVES SON, 2, THEN DIES IN FLAMES

EWING, Neb., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Carl Primis, 35, threw her two-year-old son from a second-story window, then died in flames that destroyed her home here last night. The youngster is expected to recover.

The fire started downstairs, and trapped the two in a room. The husband and three other children also survive.

JAPANESE PROTEST ARREST OF MAJOR

Detention of Officer in International Area Termed 'Illegal.'

SHANGHAI, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A Japanese army major was detained today within the International Settlement as a suspected trouble-maker in disorders that have marked the first anniversary of the outbreak of Chinese-Japanese hostilities in the Shanghai area.

Japanese military authorities protested to the administration of the International Settlement, contending that detention of a Japanese officer was illegal.

Police and defense troops maintained their strict precautions after which resulted in one fatality. Police detained several Japanese in the International Settlement as suspected trouble-makers, but only minor disturbances occurred.

Japanese war dispatches reported new progress in the Yangtze river campaign against Hankow, China's provisional capital, but acknowledged strong Chinese defenses still were stalemating drives from both sides of the river.

Army reports said a Japanese column west of Kiukiang, about 135 miles downriver from Hankow, was pushing steadily toward Juchang and that fall of that strategic city was imminent.

Juchang is a barrier across Japan's path toward the Hangkow-Canton railroad, an artery for war supplies for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's forces. It is about 100 miles southeast of Hankow.
